WHERE ARE YOU NOW MY BLUE EYED SON?

THE WITMARK DEMOS

A full account of the recordings made as demos for his music publishers during 1962/63 and 1964. All of the songs listed by Krogsgaard as being 'original demos' are included, as well as those recordings lodged with Witmark for copyright purposes. These are the songs of which Paul Cable, in his book 'Bob Dylan His Unreleased Recordings' (Macmillan 1978), said "It is a shame that the songs on this tape have wound up scattered across a whole load of bootlegs." As a representation of Dylan's early songwriting exploits these recordings are indispensable and are arguably the most significant body of early Dylan material in circulation. "It is these demos that truly document Dylan's writing between November 1962 and late April 1963"
